Pot drive-thru busted

Marijuana, rolled up "joints", money, scales and other drug paraphernalia was found by officers from the Powell County Sheriff's Office and the Kentucky State Police in a barn on Frames Branch Road. Police say Justin Goodwin was running a "drive-thru" business in selling the drug.

County clerk pleads guilty

Everyone can have their day in court if needed. That goes for Powell County Clerk Rhonda Allen Barnett too.

Barnett was in Powell District Court Tuesday morning to answer an alcohol intoxication charge. She pleaded guilty to the charge and will complete that in writing.

Barnett was arrested and charged after showing up at the Powell County Detention Center in the early hours of Dec. 23. Police say that she had gone to the jail to bond out a friend.

When officers arrived

at the jail Barnett was reportedly unstable on her feet and failed field sobriety tests. A portable breathalyzer test indicated her alcohol level was .132.

She was taken into custody, sent to the Montgomery County Regional Detention center and released a couple of hours later.

Following the incident Barnett issued a statement to the Times. "I apologize to anyone I have offended and I would appreciate your prayers and support," she stated.

Barnett's guilty plea on the misdemeanor charge means she will have to pay a $25 fine and $153 in court cost. Like any other person facing the same charge, the fine and additional costs are to be paid within 30 days.

If you travel any at all you will find businesses that will allow you to actually drive through their building to obtain various goods. Those businesses sell items legally. But last week officers found another type of "drive-thru" business on Frames Branch just south of Clay City that was illegal.

Powell County Sheriff Danny Rogers and his department joined with Kentucky State Police to look into some anonymous calls about a barn where people allegedly could drive into and purchase alcohol and marijuana. The tips became fact when the officers found Justin Goodwin, 19, of Clay City, and Ryan Goodwin, 22, also of Clay City, in the barn last Wednesday afternoon. They also found approximately six ounces of marijuana, Bud Light and Kessler. Justin Goodwin admitted to selling the items and Rogers stated that he had some records indicating he had been selling them for some time.

"He told us that he sold about a pound (of marijuana) a week and that is easy to believe," Rogers said.

When officers arrived they spoke to a man later identified as an uncle to the men in the barn. "He told us there was marijuana in the barn. Rogers and the other officers went to the barn to look into the complaints and tips they had received.

"Upon arriving to investigate the complaints and walked into the doorway of the barn we could smell a very strong odor coming from inside the barn," Rogers stated.

Breaking Free Youth Conference

The Breaking Free Youth Conference is an annual conference to strengthen youth in their spiritual walk. This year marked the third year that the conference has been held. The conference had local youth open the event and have been blessed the last two years with Rob Boyd delivering a message for the youth.

"We offer breakout sessions that will interest youth in decision making, drama, and ministry through missions. Such as the ministry of puppetry, clowning, ballooning, quilting, diaper ministry, and Children's Lifeline," Susan Watson, one of the conference organizers stated. "The morning sessions and the message contained a common theme 'choices.' Our youth are faced with so many choices in life we felt this would be something they could relate to."

Attendance at this year's conference was lower than anticipated. This was due to other events that were going on at the same time as the conference.

Domestic sends one to hospital, two Clay City residents to jail

By JAMES COOK
Times Editor

A late night domestic disturbance sent one person to the hospital and both parties to jail.

Police received a call about a fight at a home located on Frames Branch Road in Clay City just before 2 a.m. last Thursday morning. Officers from the Powell County Sheriff’s Office and Stanton Police Department answered the call. Upon arriving they found Joyce Johnson and Edward C. Pence at the home. Police say it was obvious that some altercation had taken place.

Johnson had suffered cuts to her face and head and had a possible broken nose. Pence suffered from cuts to his face. Both parties told officers that the other had hit, punched and kicked them. Johnson claimed that she had been hit with a hair dryer. Police say the couple was involved in an “intimate relationship.”

Both were offered treatment at the scene by Powell County EMS workers, but refused. Johnson and Pence were arrested and taken to the Powell County Detention Center. After arriving there Johnson asked for an ambulance. And one was sent to the jail.

Before being loaded into the ambulance Powell County Deputy Derek Townsend asked Johnson if she had anything on her that he should know about and she stated she did not. However, Deputy Jailer Melissa Jones searched Johnson before she was put into the ambulance and found what was identified as a “roach” or marijuana cigarette in Johnson’s front pant pocket.

Johnson, 44, was charged with assault fourth degree-domestic violence, possession of marijuana and second degree promoting contraband. She was treated at the hospital and returned to the jail. Pence, 64, was charged with assault fourth degree-domestic violence.

Both were in Powell District Court last Friday for arraignment on the charges.

found two subjects inside a closed room in the barn and they were actually smoking marijuana when we found them. It was all just right there for us to see.”

Rogers said officers found both men after Justin had just completed a sale to Ryan. Officers found what turned out to be 5.6 ounces of marijuana in different containers, several marijuana cigarettes that were rolled and ready to sell and a “very small amount of alcohol.”

“They had a sign on the door that said unless you’re 18 or older, stay out and it also said no pill heads,” Rogers said with a chuckle. “They were good to their word I guess. We didn’t find any pills.”

Justin Goodwin told officers he had been selling the items for sometime and even had records of some transactions. Ryan Goodwin also told police he had just made a purchase before they arrived.

Justin Goodwin was arrested and charged with trafficking in marijuana, illegal sale of alcohol in a dry territory, possession of drug paraphernalia and illegal possession of alcohol in a dry territory. He was lodged in the Powell County Detention Center, but was later released on a $3,000 surety bond.

Ryan Goodwin was given a citation for possession of marijuana. He was found to have one ounce of marijuana in his pocket. He was not arrested based on the new state law that allows officers to cite alleged perpetrators to court for less serious offenses. He is scheduled to appear in Powell District Court on Jan. 31.

Good planning is beneficial to one and all

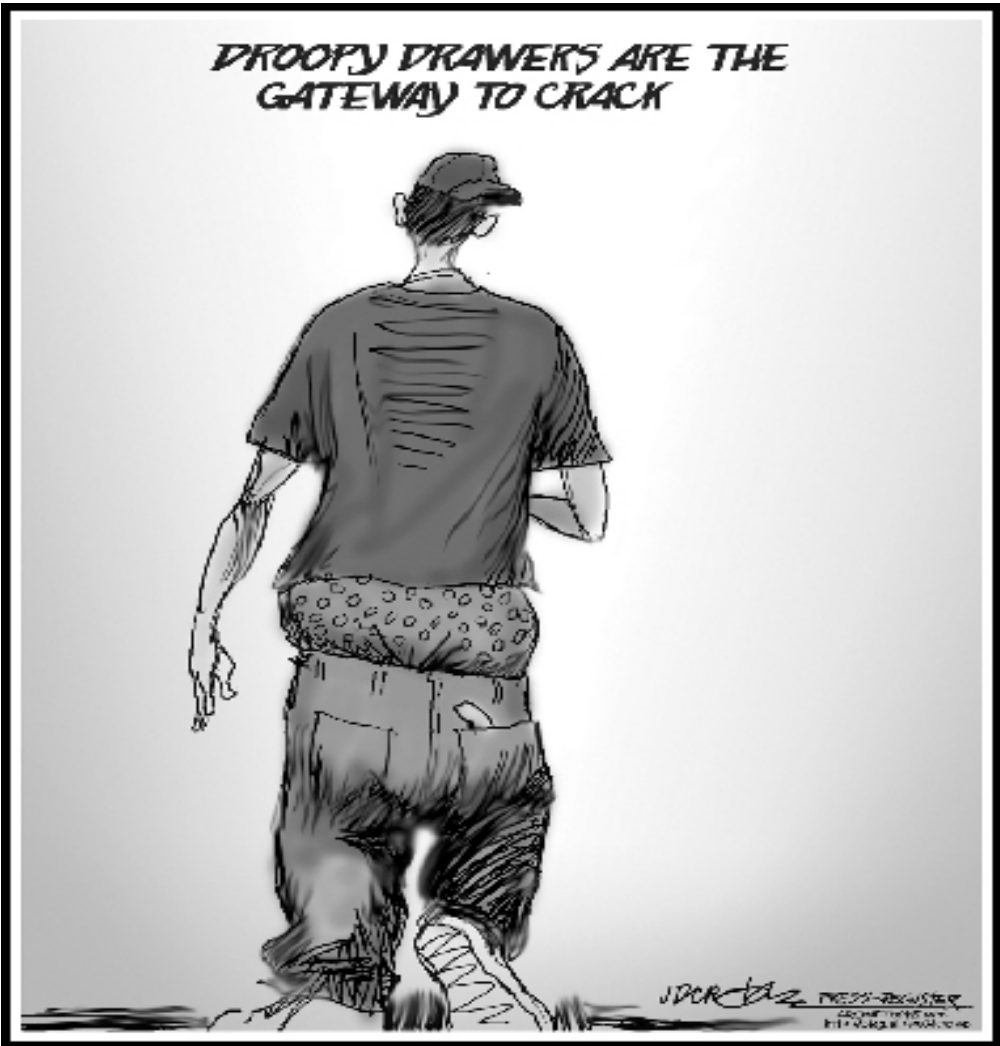

JAMES COOK
Times Editor

Have you ever had one of those days, weeks, weekends or month where it seems like you never stop? Sure you have, unless you hide out somewhere. It seems like I have a lot of those days, weeks, weekends, etc. Last week alone I covered a few basketball games, a couple of breaking stories, tried to keep up-to-date on other news and follow-ups. Even though I had a couple nights where I was home before 9 p.m. (a rare occasion), I still did not catch up on everything I needed to do. In fact the Christmas decorations have been taken down (thanks to my wife and daughter) but I haven't put them back in the attic just yet. I bought a replacement windshield wiper two weeks ago and I still haven't put it on the car yet. Add that to the fact that my chimney has not been checked and cleaned yet and you can see that I am w-a-a-a-a-y behind. I guess it takes more of an effort to try to keep up with the little things, but those little things can become big things if we are not careful. Now this is not to say I am not organized. I'm just saying that I am trying to place too many irons in the fire, so to speak. And as we all know, that can be a problem. Take our own county for instance. Sometimes we have so much going on that there is no way you can do or see everything. Back in December we had one weekend where there was a lot going on. Parades, Christmas bizarre, dedications, concerts – you name it and we probably had it going on. Now, on one hand that could be a good thing. A variety of happenings, something for everyone, can be beneficial. But on the other hand it can also hurt when it comes to drawing power and money, especially at Christmas time. Some of those events didn't get the word out in time and others just had to hope for the best. Later in December we had basketball games galore, another concert, plays and other family oriented events. It was enough to make your head swim, but I trust everyone had a good time. During a slower time of year it may not have been so rushed. But planning and trying to work together is the key. I sometimes wonder if people try to see what else is going on or planned before they schedule events. I know sometimes, like with a concert, the scheduling can be dictated by the performer's schedule. While for other events it is more of a personal preference for the organizer. Take a look at this past weekend. Local churches and youth groups held the Break Free Youth Conference at the high school. I attended last year but was not able to this year (I was out of town, another rare occasion.) To be honest there was not much word out there about the conference. I know I am not the only one who does not check bulletin boards or does not listen only to local radio stations. Sorry, but as I leave a store I am usually checking my receipt and I like to listen to various kinds of music (some forced on me because my teenage daughter changes the station.) But on the other hand there was also an AAU basketball tournament held at the middle school, just a few yards away, at the same time as the youth conference. I had no clue that was going on at all! I'm pretty sure that when the conference was planned, with a singing group and drama team coming from out of state and from another city, the basketball tournament probably was not scheduled yet.

Estill County native J.D. Crowe is an editorial cartoonist with the Mobile, Alabama, Register.

Now I understand both groups felt the need to hold their event and I agree. But a little better planning, advertising and scheduling awareness could have made both events quite successful. Not to say they weren't, but they could have been a little better with more participation from the community. All I'm saying is that sometimes we need to see what else is going on and if we can work together for the best of the community, then lets do it. I love it when there are plenty of things to do for all of us and I know event organizers like to be able to draw a lot of people. So lets find a way to compromise and try to utilize our resources, facilities and time to benefit as many as we can. We are a small, yet strong community. We want to see everyone succeed, because with every success that helps the county, it helps each of us collectively. That makes us even stronger and the cycle continues. So as for myself, I am going to try to delegate a little more, hopefully get a little help from the community (we get a lot now and I truly appreciate it) and learn to use my time more wisely. I will try to make the community a better place and I will try to help get the word out about all the events to help promote the great things about the county I love to call home. Helping my neighbors and making this a more successful county is the least I can do. It's the least any of us can do. I'm just saying . . .

Guest Column: Some amazing words for the New Year

By REV. JAMES L. SNYDER
Guest Columnist

Topping the list this year of words not to be used is the word “amazing.” Allegedly [which I think is one word that should not be used this year], 1500 people voted to ban the word “amazing.” Of all the words I would like to see canceled during this year, “amazing” is not one of them. One word I would like to see banned is, “caucus.” I have no idea what this word means. Sure, I can look it up in the dictionary and find out what it is supposed to mean, but when used in the political arena, I am all confused. Yet, this word is employed in the process of determining who will be the nominee for the political office of President of the United States. I think it is interesting that in order to get to the White House every politician needs to start with a Native American caucus. Another word I would like to see banned for the year is the word “polling.” It seems no politician can do anything without first doing some polling. They will spend millions of dollars doing this polling. Contemporary politicians would not know what day of the week it was if it was not for the latest poll. Even though the Creator gave each politician two legs to stand on, they are always switching from one leg to the next. Now I know why a politician has a left foot and a right foot. “Earmarks,” is another word I would like to see banned for this coming year. A politician without his or her earmarks is like a skunk without his stink. If you take a skunk, you are going to have to put up with his stink. I guess the politician needs to do something with his or her ears for they certainly are not employed in hearing anything from their constituents. If a politician insists on earmarks, I think we ought to do some marking of their ears. When I was a youngster in school, my teachers found a wonderful use for my ears. Whenever they wanted me to do something, they would grab me by the ears and jerk me into the right direction. Where are those teachers when you really need her? I would like to help them with their ear jerking operation. I know. Let's call it the Ear Jerking Operation. One final word I would like to see obliterated is the word “party.” Especially when associated with something political. Let's face it. The political world is just one great big party after another, usually, at someone else's expense. If I could go to a party with somebody else paying for it, I guess I would go to. Whenever somebody asks me which political party I belong to I usually respond by saying, “The birthday party.” At a birthday party, at least you get to eat cake and sometimes in the excitement get a little bit on your face. At political parties, everybody is eating their own words and ending up with egg on their face. I suppose there would be a whole lot of other words I could add to my list. One word I am not going to ban and that is God's Word. There is nothing more amazing to me than the relevance of God's word in my life today. One word I love is, “Trust in the LORD with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths” (Proverbs 3:5-6). I am quite content to allow God have the last word in my life. I have found it to be amazingly true.

State Sen. Jensen: Hoping to make state a 'better home' for our children

By TOM JENSEN
State Senator

The first week of the 2012 Session was a combination of the ceremonial and the new. We gaveled in on Tuesday of last week with the traditional establishment of the membership of the Senate and approval of our chamber's rules. Over 200 bills have already been filed in the General Assembly and will start making their way through the committee process beginning in earnest this week.

On Wednesday, the Governor gave his State of the Commonwealth address. He spoke of the challenges facing the Commonwealth but, unfortunately, I didn't hear any concrete proposals to solve them.

For example, he brought up tax reform and expanded gambling with no details to what these two complex policy positions would mean to the tax-payer.

While it is good that he is acknowledging the weakness of our job climate at the beginning of his second term, his proposal to bring together a task force to offer recommendations is not constructive. We have had numerous studies done already. I have no idea who will be on the tax force or what their qualifications will be.

Last year, the Senate proposed that a group of independent tax experts and economists, not just study the issue, but rewrite the entire tax code. Kentucky has the highest effective personal income tax rate of our surrounding states. That is a fact. What we need is a code that will create wealth through more jobs, not the redistribution of wealth.

The Governor also focused on the expansion of gambling. Again, there was no proposal although I understand that he is looking at a possibility of nine casinos around the state. The details remain elusive. The people need to be informed of all the pros and cons of any proposal in an open and transparent way.

The Senate has offered bipartisan solutions for the above challenges. But we are only one chamber in one branch of state government. We stand ready to work with the Governor where we can. I certainly hope that I will be able to look back four years from now and reflect that he was a governor who had a productive vision for Kentucky and I was able to partner with him to achieve a better home for our children and grandchildren.

This week, the Senate will be looking at redistricting as we work toward the goal of cohesive and balanced voter districts that meet all the legal requirements of equal representation in Frankfort and Washington, D.C.

In the upcoming weeks, I look forward to addressing the abuses of pseudoephedrine throughout the Commonwealth and finding solutions to eliminate methamphetamine labs.

This is a very brief overview of how things look in the opening days of this session. It is much too early to predict all of the more than 1,000 bills we will consider before the final gavel falls in April. I will continue to write each week about the work we're doing in the Senate. But there are many other ways to stay informed about the legislature, as well.

The Kentucky Legislature Home Page, www.lrc.ky.gov, provides information on each of the Commonwealth's senators and representatives, including our phone numbers, addressees, and committee assignments. The site also provides a bill tracking service, and committee meeting schedules.

By going to our eNews page, www.lrc.ky.gov/pubinfo/listserv.htm, you can subscribe to frequent e-mail updates on what's happening at the Capitol. In addition, the General Assembly has its own blog, Capitol Notes, www.lrc.ky.gov/pubinfo/capitol_notes.htm, that will allow you to receive legislative updates at your leisure.

You can also stay in touch with General Assembly action in the following ways:

- A taped message containing information on legislative committee meetings is updated daily at 1-800-633-9650.
- To check the status of a bill, you may call the toll-free Bill Status Line at 1-866-840-2835.
- To leave a message for any legislator, call the General Assembly's toll-free Message Line at 1-800-372-7181. People with hearing difficulties may leave messages for lawmakers by calling the TTY Message Line at 1-800-896-0305.
- You may write any legislator by sending a letter with the lawmaker's name to: Capitol Annex, 702 Capitol Avenue, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Senator Jensen (R-London) represents the 21st Senate District, which includes Estill, Jackson, Laurel, Menifee, and Powell Counties.

Last Thursday, State Rep. Richard Henderson, second from left (above), held a press conference to highlight two bills he has filed during the General Assembly's 2012 legislative session, both of which are designed to help young children in need. His House Bill 160 seeks to do away with deed restrictions that limit structures deemed medically necessary for children 12 younger, while his House Bill 27 would make it a felony for those who wait 12 hours or more before reporting a missing child who is also 12 or younger. Joining him on Thursday at the Capitol were, at left, state Rep. Keith Hall of Pike County, who spoke in favor of the missing-child legislation; Tiffany Veloudis, the mother of Cooper, a three-year-old with cerebral palsy whose play structure at his Lexington home has come under scrutiny by the local neighborhood association; and Pat Gesualdo, who is President/CEO of Drums and Disabilities (D.A.D.), a national nonprofit organization formed to help and advocate for those with such disabilities as autism, attention deficit disorder and Tourette's syndrome.

Whitaker Bank would like to invite everyone to stop by and check out the new teller line renovation at our Main Office in Stanton on January 13, 2012, from 8:30am - 3:00pm.

HENRY & HOMER DVD'S AVAILABLE

by Preacher Bill Holeman

Henry and Homer recently "helped" me produce a DVD, lasting one hour and forty minutes. Do you want something which to remember these guys? Maybe give a copy as a keepsake to your children and/or grandchildren? In their timeless fashion, Henry and Homer share their jokes, Bible stories, etc. in a humorous way. Susan (daughter) and Veronica (granddaughter) both work at Manchester Memorial Hospital, which graciously produced this DVD. Edward Nelson

August 26, 1935 - January 11, 2009

You have been gone three years Wednesday and I really miss you. I know life goes on but it is hard without you. I miss you now more than ever before. But I trust that God will open a door, and show me how to go on without you. To give me some hope and comfort too. For you were my life and I loved you so dear and it breaks my heart to not have you near. But life goes on and I will too. I just wish it wouldn't go on without you.

This was sent to me from a friend on facebook:

You can shed tears that he is gone, Or you can smile because he has lived. You can close your eyes and pray that he'll come back, or you can open your eyes and see all that he has left. Your heart can be empty because you can't see him or you can be full of love you shared. You can turn your back on tomorrow and live yesterday, or you can be happy for tomorrow because of yesterday. You can remember him only that he is gone or you can cherish his memory and let it live on. You can cry and close your mind, be empty and turn your back or you can do what he'd want, Be happy, Open your eyes, Love and go on.

Maryann

Farmer's Almanac helpful and full of tidbits

MIKE REED
County Ag.
Agent

Happy New Year Powell County!

Hopefully you have been able to take advantage of the 50+ degree days we have had this past week to take down all your Christmas lights and get your place ready for the New Year. I will take 50 degrees any day in January, as it just takes us another day closer to spring time.

I, for one, do not have to have many snow days to make my life complete. I had enough of them growing up. I can remember sleigh riding for weeks at a time growing up with no school in January and most of February. Growing up took away all the fun in snow and snow days.

One of the fun things about the new year is looking through a Farmer's Almanac at their predictions and the farm folklore involved in that book. Since I did not vote for Mr. Farmer for Ag commissioner last fall, he did not send me a free Almanac, but I was able to pick up one at the Kentucky Farm Bureau Annual convention back in December.

Some of the neat points in this year's Farmer's almanac included: the 1852 Work Rules of the Burnleys Cotton Mill Office in Chicago, Illinois. It mentioned that clerical staff must provide their own pens and they were encouraged to bring four pounds of coal each day during the winter to heat their stoves for warmth.

They were not allowed to crave or use tobacco, wines or any other spirits, nor were they allowed to snack on food unless between 11:30 and 12:00 Noon. They were also not allowed to talk during business hours.

Daily prayers were offered each morning before work started and no member of the staff could leave the room without the permission from Mr. Rogers. My how things have changed since 1852!

Another Almanac novelty is the fact that there will be a "Blue Moon" in 2012. A blue moon is more commonly known as the second full moon in a month, which is rare and where you hear the term, "Once in a Blue Moon". The blue moon will appear for all of us to see on Aug. 31.

There will be an eclipse of the sun this year on May 20, but only our friends in California, Oregon and Utah will see it. Those guys on the far west always get the goodies!

This Almanac is also filled with lots of other maybe useless trivia like when to plant seedbeds in March, when to kill weeds in July and that the best day to hunt in February will be on Feb. 13. The Almanac's gestation table tells me our eggs will hatch in 21 days, my cats can have kittens in 63 days and that the average life span of a donkey is 45 years. That is such great news for me!

While I don't have almanacs to share with everyone, I would be happy to share this information with anyone during the course of the year. I always keep one near my phone in case anyone wants to know the best day to dig post holes or castrate their calves. Happy New Year to you and yours!

Emerald Ash Borer found in more Kentucky Counties

It seems that many of those bright purple boxes you saw hanging in trees in our area have been reviewed over the past several weeks and borers were found in even more counties of Kentucky. The borer, an invasive insect pest of ash trees has now been confirmed in Anderson, Boyle, Bracken, Garrard, Hardin and Scott counties for 2011. Previously borers were confirmed in Boone, Kenton, Boyd, Fayette, Jessamine, Franklin, Henry, Owen, Shelby, Woodford, Greenup, Campbell, Jefferson and Oldham counties.

The borer, seen primarily as a small, dark metallic green beetle attacks all species of ash trees and feeds on leaves, but does most of its damage as a borer, burrowing into the bark of the tree and destroys the trees ability to take up water and nutrients, gradually killing it. Gradual tree death, from the top down are the first signs of this problem.

While the Emerald Ash borer has not yet been confirmed in Powell and surrounding counties, it probably is, or will be confirmed soon. Travelers in Kentucky will again see those purple boxes hanging in trees again this summer, as the state Entomology department plans to continue trapping and surveying at least one more season. The borer first appeared in Kentucky in 2009, and has the potential to completely take out all Ash trees in the state of Kentucky.

January Cattle Management "To Do" List

Spring Calving Herd Prepare for calving season

Prepare a calving area and equipment:

- Well-lighted pen bedded with clean straw
- Facilities to warm chilled calves (warming box, truck cab, heat lamp, etc.)
- Puller and chains
- Eartags and applicator
- Frozen colostrum or commercial colostrum supplement
- Oral calf feeder
- Iodine for calf's navel
- Record book
- Scales (optional)
- Arrange for enough labor to assist during the calving period.

- Obtain a cow-calf record book from your county Extension office or KCA and use it to record calving information.

Mature dry cows' needs are minimal if they are in the desired body condition. Consider protein supplementation if hay is much below 10% crude protein.

Keep replacement heifer calves gaining enough to reach their "target" weight (65% mature wt.) by the start of the breeding season.

Considerations for All Cattle

- Feed hay in areas where mud is less of a problem.
- Increase feed intake as the temperature drops.
- Provide clean water at all times. Be aware of frozen pond hazards.

Fall Calving Herd Breeding season ends

- Cows nursing calves need 25-30 pounds of good quality hay, or its equivalent, throughout the breeding season.
- Remove bulls Jan. 20 to end the breeding season and for last calves to be born by Nov. 1.

- Consider creep feeding to add extra pounds since fall calves need more than just their dams milk for maximum growth. Maintain high quality forage for cows for good body condition, milk production, and calf gains.

- Finish castrations, dehorning and implanting.

- Provide clean windbreaks and shelter for young calves

Forages

- Prepare for pasture renovation by purchasing seeds, inoculant, etc. and getting equipment ready.
- Determine the need for N fertilization of selected grass pasture fields for early spring growth.
- Assess hay quality and inventory.
- Allocate hay feeding based on animal needs and hay quality.
- Determine varieties to be used for renovation.
- Plan pasture utilization strategy (fencing, water, shade).

ENCOURAGING WORD: WHEN HUMILITY AND GRATITUDE MEET

Howard Coop

Guest Columnist

To be kind and helpful to Kathryn and I, a good friend, over an extended period of time, has done numerous kind and helpful things for us. It could be said, and quite accurately, that our friend had gone far beyond the normal demands of duty to be kind and helpful to us. And every kind and helpful act of that dear friend was, and is, remembered and deeply appreciated.

On a recent occasion, I met that friend, and we had an opportunity to engage in a delightful and extended conversation. During that pleasant experience with that special friend, I remembered all of the wonderful acts of kindnesses and helpfulness and took the opportunity to express my deepest gratitude to my friend for all of those wonderful and helpful acts of kindness with which our lives had been so richly blessed. With a shrug of the shoulders and an expression that, to me, indicated genuine humility, my friend passed it off by saying, "Oh, it was nothing."

After searching for appropriate words to reply to my friend, I said, "And what may have been nothing to you sure was something to us. You blessed our lives, and we will never forget the multitude of wonderful acts of kindness and helpfulness that you have done for us."

That, I assume, is a normal reaction, for perspective means much in any, and every, situation, and the circumstance faced gives each individual a different perspective; therefore little to one person can, and often does, become much to another person. Under almost every circumstance, the sincere purveyor of good deeds and kind acts will always and with a deep sense of humility views those good deeds from one perspective, while the recipient, truly grateful for them, will always views them from an entirely different perspective. So, when humility and gratitude meet, that which is nothing to one person will, indeed, be something of great value to another person.

Blue Monday

By SARAH BLOOM
Times Lifestyle
Columnist

Every Sunday afternoon without fail my dad asks me, "Do you know what tomorrow is?" For quite some time now we have been kidding each other about the dreaded first day back into the work week. Faking distress my response is always, "Blue Monday."

It is understandable that everyone is slow to move on a Monday morning. After a few days off from the hustle and bustle of school and work it is almost a bodily protest to get moving again. Those few extra hours of sleep taken in on the weekend seem to come back and haunt us once that alarm begins to blare in the early Monday morning stillness.

This reluctance to get back into the swing of things is probably to blame for the numerous "Monday" mishaps.

I could not count the number of times I have heard someone say, "This has definitely been a Monday!" I have even heard people say that it is almost too much trouble to even take a few days of break.

Now I do not agree with that statement in the least, but I am a firm believer that Monday mornings just seem to take extra joy in making us accountable.

This past Monday morning my son Luke had a doctor's appointment. Since this day was to hopefully be the day that his last cast was removed we all started out with high expectations for a wonderful day.

Well, much to my dismay we were still sitting in the waiting room almost two hours after his appointment time. Since I had to get back to work as soon as possible this was really wearing my patience thin.

I consider myself to be a fairly understanding person, but one of my biggest pet peeves is having to sit in a waiting room while I watch my allotted time slip farther and farther away. When I have an appointment I expect to be seen at that time or at least close to it.

So by the time they called my son's name I was frazzled and more than ready to be out of there. I was trying hard not to let the tone of the morning color my attitude for the rest of the day, but selfishly I was failing.

I found myself wanting to be aggravated at the nurses working in that doctor's office. For some reason my mind wanted vindication for the wrong I felt I had been dealt.

I was ready to say something about my longer than normal wait time to anyone who would listen when a younger nurse came into our room. She was smiling but I could tell she was rushed.

My mom was with me so she casually made a remark about our wait. The nurse smiled again and said they had already seen forty patients and regrettably had gotten behind.

It hit me then that I should probably be more understanding although at times it is so hard to look past the end of my own nose.

I know there was a reason our wait was longer than usual. It is just like getting behind an extremely slow driver. God put that person there for a reason. God made our wait longer for a reason even though we may never know what that particular reason was.

Maybe He was trying to teach me a lesson in patience. I have always been taught that you should not pray for patience because then God will give you a situation that requires it.

Patience is a "learned" ability. This week I think the good Lord choose to use my "Blue Monday" to teach me a lesson.

Thankfully Luke's cast was able to be removed. He is now cast free and only confined to a splint. Hopefully life around our household will finally get back to normal.

I want to say "Thank you" again to everyone who said a prayer or asked about my son throughout this whole ordeal. Your thoughts and prayers have been much appreciated!

So do you have a 'frindle'?

By JAMES COOK
Times Editor

Stanton Elementary and Mrs. Ewen's 4th grade classes worked very hard on their latest project. The students completed the book in titled "Frindle" and the students were asked to design a project to advertise a frindle.

For those of you who have never had the opportunity to read the book a "frindle" is a word that was invented by a student in the book as another name for a pencil. The students all created wonderful projects and each had some very creative and unique ideas ranging from t-shirts, to cupcakes, to pencil pouches, pencil holders, and even some pretty large pens and pencils.

Mrs. Ewen expressed how taken back and proud she was of her students and their hard work and creativeness. She also explained that thanks to one student Dylan Arvin she is quiet sure everyone else would be jealous of her new ink pen as she is sure she is now the proud of owner of the largest ink pen in the school district.

Remember, NO SCHOOL

Worth Remembering

Try waxing your ashtrays. Ashes won't cling, odors won't linger and they can be wiped clean with a paper towel or disposable tissue. This saves daily washing.

Spray garbage sacks with ammonia to prevent dogs from tearing the bags before picked up.

You can clean darkened aluminum pans easily by boiling in them two teaspoons of cream of tartar mixed in a quart of water. Ten minutes will do it.

Couponing 101:

Surviving an economic crunch

I remember a time, not so long ago, when couponing was not fashionable. There were even rumors of coupons being discontinued because people just were not using them. The tide has turned. There are hundreds of couponing websites, newspaper columns, blogs and even a television show about extreme couponers. Consumers are searching for ways to make their dollars go farther and couponing can result in significant savings.

On Jan. 12 at 1:30 p.m. at the Powell County Cooperative Extension Service, Gina Noe, Madison County Extension Agent for Family and Consumer Sciences, will present "Couponing 101, Surviving an Economic Crunch." Topics to be covered include meal planning, creating a master shopping list, finding and organizing coupons, couponing etiquette and stockpiling.

Here are a few pointers to help you get more bang for your buck:

The Sunday paper is one of the easiest places to find coupons. Magazines and weekly flyers are also great resources. There are plenty of online printable coupons and even some you can download directly onto your customer loyalty cards. Swap unused coupons with your friends and family.

Know what products you use most often and plan ahead. By buying products at their lowest prices and stockpiling until you need them, you are never forced to pay full price for items you use on a regular basis. This only works with products you will use before the expiration date.

Use coupons to try new products. Consider them your own sale on items you might not have purchased at full price.

The best way to save money is to combine coupons with sales. Take a little time to peruse store flyers and match your coupons with sale items.

Don't get carried away with coupons. There are other ways to save money. Generic brands may still be less expensive than brand names with a coupon. Take time in the store to compare price. Better still, keep a master list of products you buy most and compare prices at different stores.

The class is free and open to the public.

Powell County Relay for Life helps lives everywhere

Imagine a day when you can get vaccinated against cancer or can treat cancer the way most people treat high blood pressure, with simple medication and no adverse side effects. These advances are not farfetched, and by supporting the American Cancer Society Relay For Life, community members in Powell County have the opportunity to be a part of paving the way for new medical advances through the Society's research program.

Thanks in part to the generous contributions to the American Cancer Society Relay For Life of Powell County, the Society continues its relentless fight against cancer in the lab to better understand, prevent, find and treat cancer. As the nation's largest source of private, nonprofit cancer research funds, the American Cancer Society has contributed more than $4 billion to cancer research since 1946.

The American Cancer Society has funded research for virtually every major breakthrough in cancer. Here are several discoveries that Society-funded researchers have played a role in:

- Cure for childhood leukemia with combination chemotherapy
- Pap smear for early detection and prevention of cervical cancer
- Mammography for early detection of breast cancer
- Lumpectomy + radiation for treatment of breast cancer
- PSA test (prostate screening antigen) for early detection of prostate cancer
- 5-FU (a major chemotherapy drug) for treating colon cancer
- Establishment of the relationship between smoking and lung cancer
- Creation of recombinant DNA and gene cloning
- Discovery of cancer-causing oncogenes and tumor suppressor genes
- Discovery of genes for inherited breast and colon cancer
- Use of small molecule inhibitors such as Gleevec for treatment of chronic myeloid leukemia

- Use of tamoxifen to reduce risk of second or first breast cancer
- Development of monoclonal antibodies to treat breast cancer and lymphoma

By utilizing what has been learned through research, the American Cancer Society has contributed to a 15 percent decrease in the overall cancer death rate between the early 1990s and 2005. Nearly 650,000 cancer deaths have been prevented and created the potential for more birthday celebrations. Overall, 11 million cancer survivors in America will celebrate a birthday this year.

With the help of dedicated Relay For Life supporters in Powell County, the American Cancer Society is saving lives by finding cures right here in Kentucky. In the last six months, the following researchers have received grants from the American Cancer Society:

- Gang Chen, PhD at the University of Kentucky
- Edith Crumb at the University of Louisville
- Teresa Cunningham at the Hospice of the Bluegrass
- Ellen Green at Hosparus, Inc.
- Dr. Craig Horbinski at the University of Kentucky

The grants explore different aspects of cancer, including cellular based investigations of the disease and a social study on the needs of siblings of childhood cancer survivors. In all, the American Cancer Society is funding 15 grants for more than $5 million in cancer research and training in Kentucky.

Since its founding in 1946, the American Cancer Society's extramural research grant program has devoted more than $4 billion to cancer research and has funded 46 researchers who have gone on to win the Nobel Prize, primarily early in their careers. The program emphasizes investigator-initiated, peer-reviewed proposals, and has supported groundbreaking research that has led to critical discoveries leading to a better understanding of cancer and cancer treatment.

By supporting Relay For Life, community members support the American Cancer Society mission to save lives and create a world with less cancer and more birthdays. To learn more about the American Cancer Society and the Relay For Life of Powell County, call 1-800-227-2345 or visit cancer.org.

Pirates capture two more

By GREG MCINTOSH
Times Sportswriter

The Powell County Pirates were anxious to start the New Year and get back to the court. Their first opponent was the Menifee County Wildcats on the road last Tuesday. Both teams had been playing well as of late and the first quarter was back and forth. Menifee was able to take a 17 - 15 lead after the first quarter. The second quarter saw the Pirates take control of the game outscoring the Wildcats, 25 - 14, to take a 40 - 31 lead at the half.

Defense was the story in the third quarter as both teams found baskets difficult to come by. Powell increased their lead to double digits after the third quarter. The fourth quarter saw Menifee comeback to get the game close but Powell was able to hold on and win the game, 89 - 79, on the road. The Pirates were led by Matt Pelfrey with 26 points and Trey Marcum with 24 points. Zack Dennis added 15 points. Austin Monnett scored 14 points for the victorious Pirates.

Last Friday, Powell hosted the Lee County Bobcats in another 56th District matchup. Powell was looking to take advantage of their home court and hold on to the district lead with a victory. Lee County and their fans were ready to go home with a win. Both teams started the game with stellar defense and physical play. Powell was able to score the final basket of the quarter and lead 14 - 12 after one quarter.

The Bobcats seized control of the game in the second quarter and led by as many as 16 points mid-way through the period. Powell battled back with help from Trey Marcum and Caleb McCoy. The Pirates with foul trouble used their deep bench to cut into the Bobcat lead and get the game within reach at 40 - 33 at half-time.

Lee County was ready to take the game and run in the third quarter extending their lead back to 14 in the quarter. After Powell and Lee traded baskets, the Bobcats led 51 - 41 with three minutes to play in the third quarter. Powell picked up the defensive pressure and with help from Ryan and Brett Goodwin, the Pirates ran off nine straight points to cut the lead to 51 - 50 after three quarters.

The crowd from both teams was ready for a battle in the fourth quarter and the teams gave it to them. Lee County quickly scored to increase their lead only to have Powell cut the lead back to a point. The Pirates finally tied the game at 59 - 59 with four minutes to play in the game.

The game had been dominated by Lee and that was the first tie since the score was fifteen all early in the second quarter. Jacob Conner and Ryan Goodwin scored for the Pirates and Powell led 63 - 59 with a minute and a half to play.

After a Pirate steal, Ryan Goodwin hit two free throws and the Powell lead was six points. Lee's Blake Gabbard hit one of two free throws for the Bobcats and Powell began to miss from the line. Goodwin missed two free throws and Tyler Evans hit a three pointer for Lee to cut the lead down to only two points for the Pirates.

Powell got the ball inbounds against the Lee County full court press and Trey Marcum was fouled with only ten seconds left to play. Marcum, Powell's best free throw shooter, was at the line for two shots. Marcum missed the first and Powell's fans got nervous. Marcum stepped to the line and just missed the second shot. Lee County rebounded the ball and called a timeout.

The Pirates set up their full court press to try and stop the Bobcats.

Lee inbounded the ball and after two passes got the ball into the corner to Chase Baker. Baker took the shot at the buzzer for the win with two players flying at him. The ball floated to the basket as the crowd roared. The ball hit the rim and bounced off. The Pirates escaped with a 65 - 63. Trey Marcum and Jacob

Conner lead the Pirates with 10 points each in the Powell win.

Powell's record now stands at 10 - 5 overall and 4 - 0 in district action. The Pirates were scheduled to host Breathitt County on Tuesday night. The Pirates will be on the road Friday at Cordia.

Lady Pirates drop two close games

By JAMES COOK
Times Editor

Last week was a rough one for the Powell County Lady Pirates. Coming off a rocky holiday tournament in Carter County, they were hoping to right the ship against Breathitt and Morgan counties. But foul trouble seemed to plague them as they fell to Breathitt 66-62 and dropped one to Morgan, 62-58. Both games were close throughout.

Last Monday the lady Pirates were in the friendly confines of the Rodney T. Clark Memorial Gym as they hosted the Lady Kats of Breathitt. The two teams traded baskets for most of the game. Breathitt's size helped them seal up the inside game, while Powell's quickness and outside shooting kept the game close. But in the end Breathitt was able to hold on for the four point win, 66-62.

Powell was led by senior Taylor Atkinson with 20 points. Keeley Rogers poured in 19 and Stephanie Knox tossed in 11 points.

Last Friday the lady Pirates hit the road to play Morgan County. The lady Cougars. Powell jumped out to a 19-11 lead after one quarter. But foul trouble led to Powell having to go to the bench a lot. Morgan took advantage, but the Lady Pirates fought hard. But the fouls took their toll as three Lady Pirate starters fouled out. Morgan clawed their way to a 62-58 win.

Powel was led by Rogers with 18 points and Atkinson with 17. Morgan was led by Faith Slone with a game high 23 points. Fellow Lady Cougars Brittany Stamper tossed in 15 and Brianna Lindon added 10.

"Two tough losses, each by four point margins. We've got to learn to finish strong in the close games. Of course, that's hard to do with constant foul trouble," Lady Pirates Head Coach Ken

Jones said. "We had three starters foul out at Morgan County and still had a chance for the win, but missed a couple of assignments and let them get put backs."

Jones is looking or some leadership from his bench when foul trouble becomes a problem. "We've also got to get some more from our bench; somebody has to step up when they have the opportunity. We're making progress, but just can't seem to close out," he added. "With only a few weeks until tournament time, we've got speed up the learning curve."

Powell traveled to Lee County in an important district match-up this past Monday. Lee has not won a district game yet, but Powell is 1-1 and needs the win to stay in the hunt for the top district seed. The Lady Pirates will return home on Friday to host Hazard. The Lady Dawgs were 3-10 when this week of action began, but can be a dangerous team at times. Game times at 6 p.m. for the JV contest and 7:30 p.m. for the varsity clash.
